San Antonio Filmmaker Premieres Comedy Pilot at the Palladium FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Frozen Fire Productions, based out of San Antonio, TX, is proud to announce the exclusive premiere of "Watching You," a brand new comedy series starring Johnny Walter and Kelsey Pribilski, and directed by Joshua Thomas that will take place at the Santikos Palladium Theater on June 7th, 2012 at 8:00pm. Tickets on sale for just $9.00 at www.watchingyouserious.com!

"Watching You" is the story of Taylor, a womanizing actor who cares only for his own well being. After living a horrible life, when he dies he gets one last chance to avoid hell by becoming the guardian angel to Jessica Parker, a socially awkward nerdy girl who works for an evil company...He should have considered hell.

"This is nowhere near the stereotype people think of for Independent Film," states director Joshua Thomas, "The look and feel that we have created isn't meant to make you ponder life's deepest questions or take you on a visual buffet of sights and abstract shots. This is a comedy with a great story; you will be entertained and laughing from start to finish." It will be a two hour red carpet event, where you can walk the carpet, have your picture taken if you'd like and even be interviewed after the show. The 70 minute pilot will be followed by a Q&A with the cast and crew where various prizes will be given away!

The series was produced entirely in San Antonio by Frozen Fire Productions. A new locally based production company made up of Joshua Thomas, Scott Langford, Nichol Rodriguez, and Joseph Nielsen. The series features many San Antonio actors such as Robert Jerdee, Bill Gundry, Tyler Keyes, Brant Bumpers, Alex Poncio, and Michael Burger who perform in local theater and film communities.

See what Express News columnist Deborah Martin is calling "Very Funny," by watching the trailer online at www.watchingyouserious.com. Pre-sale tickets are also available online at the website.

All proceeds of the event go to the production costs and future episodes of the series. The show will be shopped around to networks and distribution companies and even entered into competitions and festivals. Come support local San Antonio filmmakers, but overall, come have a wonderful evening filled with laughs and entertainment!

"Watching You" will also be a part of the 18th annual SAFILM Festival, where the cast will be taking part in a script reading of the pilot episode during the final day of the festival's conference. This event will be held at the Santikos Palladium Theater as well, and it will take place before the festival's awards ceremony on Sunday, June 24th. SAFILM's conference schedule and tickets for this event can be obtained at www.safilm.com.

The show contains some adult humor, but nothing you would not see on prime time network television, recommended for mature audiences.
